In the case of Argentina, for some time there has been translating various regulations that have shaped the sport and his practice.

This field of sports-related laws, has increasingly become a necessary item to include in training teacher, given the significance of its impact on the daily lives of professionals. Hence, the aim of this work is the presentation of relevant standards in the field of sports. The methodology used was the literature survey, document analysis and consultation with current standards.

2. LAWS RELATED TO SPORT IN ARGENTINA'S

Called Sports Act No. 20.65 was passed in 1974 and has been amended. This is a law that can be divided to his study into three parts:

a) The first states according to principles and values rooted, the importance of sport in the lives of citizens in order to achieve a full life; the decision to develop this idea of citizenship, meaning that everyone has access to participate in any sport either recreationally or providing professional competence or "high performance."

Thus, the aforementioned law provides the foundation or basis for the creation of specific disciplines such as Physical Education or Sports Medicine (branch of conventional medicine). Specifically states: "promote specialized teacher training in physical education and sport technicians and ensure that both teaching and practice thereof are oriented and conducted by professionals in the field" (Art. 3 inc. B)

b) The second part is concerned with the organization and resources to fulfill its aims; 1) Creation of the Secretary of Sports, depending on the Ministry of Social Welfare, 2) Divide regions because of our country and create A National Council of Sports. 3) You create a National Sports Fund (Art. 12°).

C) The third and last part deals with sanctions in sport, in describing the typical behavior (understanding this concept, as the object of punishment or sanction) bribery, the incentive and doping.

The rule punishes whom, "by itself or by third or delivers a gift, or promise remunerative to provide or ensure the outcome of a sporting irregular or abnormal performance of a participant in the same ... "(Art.24°). In this normative two behaviors are provided, one is bribery and other inducement.

Bribery is defined as the behavior of a participant in a sports competition that by act or omission hurts his own team.

Inducement is defined as the conduct of a competition participant receives a gift towards improving their performance in favor of a result.

Meanwhile, the doping is defined as the use of prohibited substances or methods, whatever the route of administration by athletes before, during or after the competition (Art.25°). It is also a case of doping to the administration of prohibited substances or methods to an animal involved in a sports competition.

It should be noted that the standard not only punishes the person performing acts defined above, which are affected the principles of "Fair Play", but also punishes who provides an economic benefit to the athlete, as the legal benefit is the game itself (it punishes any attitude or behavior that seeks to "ensure an outcome"). In Indeed, from the objective point of view of the rule is to punish whoever seeks (regardless of their motivations) alter and / or secure an outcome as this is a benefit or advantage.

In 1997, it adopted Act antidoping N° 24.819 amending some articles of the Law on Sport. The same protects loyalty and fair play, taking into account the preservation of health. It is understood that rule because of the technological breakthrough in prohibited substances and doping linked to the need for states to resolve. It also creates the National Anti-Doping Commission, under the Executive Branch, describing the organization of the Commission, its functions and sanctions to the person committing doping and / or recurs (according to the rules suggested by the International).

Requirements posed by the norm is that they must be constituted as a civil (human groups together with the common purpose of realize an idea or objective of general good), social order linked to the development of sports, having to prove insufficient resources to maintain regular sports activities included in the program.
