INTRODUCTION

The article in question is intended to describe how much sports practice, besides taking care of the physical body and also influences the inclusion of citizens in their social practices and exercises of citizenship in your community. Based on this view we present in this article the extent that a project of sports activities with social, affect the lives of the residents of the neighborhood of Acari in the city of Rio de Janeiro. This project began in 2002 and had as a partnership in 2005 to the Pontifical Catholic University of Rio de Janeiro, brought to the families of young children and teenagers in this district a new perspective on life because through him all members the household are included in their educational, sports and social.

Being the neighborhood Acari one of which present the Human Development Index, the lowest Rio de Janeiro, where the level of violence is also present so imperative. The same was awarded the implementation of a space that has sports activities related to the social needs of the residents of the neighborhood and its entrono Acari, a fact which aims to minimize the negative actions of the parallel power that each day snatch young Cariocas the leading prematurely to death.

In this sense the article in question to describe what social and historical ambience, came the Olympic Village Clara Nunes, also presents the actions magnified by the interdisciplinary team of this machine. Introducing the actions taken by these technicians, aimed at ensuring the presence of the public and private power in negative coping actions promoted by individuals who live outside of Rio society.

1 ACARI AND THEIR COMPLEXES

The neighborhood in question has one of the HDI (Human Development Index) 0.720 (source IBGE 29/07/2013) one of the lowest in the city of Rio, losing to Costa Barros and Complexo do Alemão. The same is located in the suburb of Rio de Janeiro, geographic space where lies most of the slums in the city of Rio.

The neighborhood is linked to Acari XXV Administrative Region of the city of Rio de Janeiro, is a neighbor of the neighborhoods Pavuna, Coelho Neto, Irajá, Costa Barros, Jardim America, Columbia Park, Barros Filho and College. Geographies in question cover a mainly residential area with blocks planned, but also some slum clusters, as Ferret, Riverside Park and Acari.

The complex has a group Acari slum among them Acari Park, Villa Rica and Hope Town, declares Souza (2001) Acari Park is the oldest community, which dates from 1940, and was occupied by people coming from the northeast country, in the state of Rio de Janeiro and Minas Gerais who came in search of employment in the industrial sector in Rio de Janeiro. At this time the geography of Acari was a large swamp surrounded by a thicket. Freire (2005) points out that older residents report that they had to leave the house barefoot until the road to get to work with clean shoes. And even in the face every difficulty occupation process took place in an orderly manner, as though the houses were built of wood in alignment with characteristics of allotment. Although the occupation has happened in an orderly fashion, the residents have left to face obstacles to ensure their stay in place because there were several clashes with police which led many deaths. Souza (2001). Over the years other occupations were happening, but haphazardly, and a poverty index much steeper, and thus arise complexes Acari ..

Fit for this population, suffering and poor conditions for human survival, for years and young children amused campinhos in the surroundings, and the banter between streets and alleys, as was the part that they were entitled. With the process of globalization this population, especially the young, were creating new models of entertainment and dances of Soul and Funk initially currently happening in the neighborhood association, today happens on the streets of the slum moving bars and shady dealings.

The lack of built-in this complex for recreation, says Freire (2005), lead young people to build new spaces, slabs these slum areas are very important for the entertainment, because it is made barbecue must be tested in the dance step, takes up the sun, playing up top, loose kite up.

In 2001 the neighborhood had acari featured in the media as the worst neighborhood of Rio de Janeiro, a fact that was noted in a report prepared by the United Nations Program for Development. This report compares the Human Development Index of the neighborhood Acari poorest countries of Africa and this disclosure sparked a different look for this population geography. Freire (2005)

Therefore, the government in partnership with the third sector and private initiatives are thinking actions that minimize absences of essential services, which can provide a better life for the people of Acari complex.

2 OLYMPIC VILLAGE CLARA NUNES

In 2002 was inaugurated the Olympic Village Clara Nunes, in the neighborhood of Acari, whose idea was based on a space-building educational and moral values, open to families. The focus range of this project was to establish this risk areas the presence of the government as a positive reference for children, youth and adults in view of the great influence of organized crime on this target. The principle of co-management project was given through partnerships in sports federations and confederations, however in 2005 this co-management is replaced by the partnership of the Pontifical Catholic University of Rio de Janeiro, in order that this university has had social interventions and educational geography in question.

Because of this partnership the initial project that presented aspects of social inclusion, effectively going to be executed, because the coordination of the same has to face the Social Service Department of PUC-Rio In addition, the partnership between Department of Sport and Leisure PUC-Rio and also meet glimpse aspects related to the environment of entrono, through a project called Ecological Journeys. The project Ecological Journeys becomes developed through the participation of a multidisciplinary team, where knowledge of the Geography Department at PUC-Rio offers technical support to professionals in the Olympic Village Clara Nunes and municipal schools XXV Administrative Region, seeking thus the expansion of environmental awareness on the part of participants.

In this context of activities and entertainment environment Olympic Village Clara Nunes, also happens to be a space that has been promoting actions claim the dignity of the residents of Acari, in view of the commitment of all staff to minimize problems related to identity, the social, leisure and culture of the citizens of this district and its surroundings. The commitment of this multidisciplinary team, which includes physical education teachers, assistants, social workers, psychologists, instructors and capoeira martial arts has gone beyond the development of sporting activities leisure and recreation, as efforts gather in these actions related to actualize preventive health, culture and basic documentation. Given the well which establishes the National Curriculum of Physical Education, which also considers the cultural dimensions, social, political and affective constitute practitioner activity in order to take a new condition: working from the perspective of body culture. This conception of culture body pointed in the National Curriculum of Physical Education, adopts a methodological perspective of teaching and learning that seeks to develop autonomy, cooperation, social participation and the formation of democratic values and principles.

Just like the sport, play and leisure only make sense through movement and participation, physical activity can boost consciences to a greater political knowledge and civic society.

FINAL THOUGHTS

The geography which is located in the Olympic Village Acari has a history marked by the struggle for space and survival, as well as negative influences by a marginal power. Such power, usually influencing young children and teenagers drawing them into a "world of facilities" that do not require efforts to dignify the Brazilian citizen.
